Toy company adds production of PPEs for Moldovan medics

Igor Hincu, the founder of EduJoc toy company, received a grant from the EU and UNDP to purchase a laser cutting device four years ago. This allowed him to expand his business. Today, he is using this equipment in the fight against COVID-19. Within two weeks, his company produced 24,000 visors and distributed them to 200 hospitals, police departments, and others who are on the front line of fighting COVID-19. EduJoc also produced special boxes for patients in intensive care units to reduce the risk of transmitting the virus.
